guest in honor of and farewell to Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Wilcox of Kauai, and their sons and daughter, who left in the S. Manchuria on Wednesday for San Francisco. The feast was spread on the lawn of the spacious home, which was decorated with palms and greenery, and enclosed by hanging baskets of ferns. The long table at which the guests were seated was profusely strewn with scarlet carnations and maidenhair fern, two long artistic vases holding sprays of these fragrant blossoms at each end, and red with shaded candleabra shedding a warm glow over the dainty appointments.

After a very delightful hour and a half over this pretty table with many wishes expressed for a pleasant trip, the guests motored to the home of Mrs. J. R. Galt, where Mr. Marshall Darrach's Shakespearean recital attracted society folk. They were the invited guests of Mrs. Alonzo Garley. Those present at this very charming and pretty pot supper were Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Galt, Mr. and Mrs. Holloway, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lewis, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. A. Garley, Miss Kauai Wilcox, Master Allen Wilcox, Master Francis Brown and Mr. Sam Mahelona.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Wilcox of Kauai accompanied by their sons and daughter, Miss Kauai Wilcox, Master Allen Wilcox, and Mr. Sam Mahelona, departed on Wednesday as passengers of the Manchuria for San Francisco, where they will visit, before touring Southern California.

While on the mainland Miss Kauai Wilcox will enter a girls' college in Los Angeles, where she will resume her studies, while Mr. Allen Wilcox will proceed to a boys' school at West Newton, near Boston, Mass., for the ensuing term. Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox, accompanied by Mr. Mahelona, will travel considerably throughout California, returning in about six weeks.

The San Francisco Chronicle of September 13th contains a portrait, by Honchin, of Miss Wilhelmina Tenney of this city, with a flattering notice of her capture of the younger members of the smart set in the metropolis where she has become a great favorite and the recipient of much social attention. Following is the notice:

Miss Wilhelmina Tenney, a picture of whom appears today, is a charming Honolulu girl who has been much entertained here since her arrival with her mother, Mrs. E. D. Tenney, some months ago. Several affairs have been planned in her honor prior to her departure for the islands next week. With Miss Zaida Zabriske of New York she will be the complimented guest at Miss Lurline Matson's luncheon on Tuesday, when sixteen of the younger girls will be entertained. Mrs. Tenney and her daughter are at the Fairmont since their return from Lake Tahoe.

The many local friends of Mrs. Frances R. Day are regretting the departure of that charming and talented lady, for the east. While here in her old home of former years Mrs. Day was extensively entertained, winning a score of new friends in addition to the old. Mrs. Day will proceed immediately to New York where she will continue her work in a literary line and will later be joined by Mrs. Ernest Ross who will be her guest for the winter season.

Another perceptible acquisition to society left in the Manchuria on Wednesday in the person of Mrs. Hubert Vos of New York, who, with her daughter, Miss Graham, has been spending the past few months in Honolulu, as the guest of her mother, Mrs. L. A. Coney, at Halealea Lawn on Richards street. Mrs. Vos will return to New York city in time for the opening of the winter season, but Miss Graham will remain in this city for a while longer.

F. A. Schaefer of Honolulu is at the Stewart with a party. They arrived yesterday from the islands.—S. F. Call.

Dr. and Mrs. Philip Frear are at present occupying the mountain home of Governor and Mrs. W. F. Frear on the slopes of Tantalus, where they expect to remain for a fortnight.

Bert Payne was host last evening at a dinner given at the Lodge. Among those bidden to accept his hospitality were Mrs. Margaret Dillingham, Miss Helene Irwin, Miss Marian Newhall and Miss Lillian Goss. The men of the party were Charles Templeton Crocker, Douglas Grant, Campbell Whyte and Clare Payne.—S. F. Bulletin.

Princess David Kawanakoa returned yesterday on the Siberia from Honolulu, where she has spent the summer. The arrival of the handsome Hawaiian has been eagerly awaited by a group of young people who will remember the jolly entertainments at her home on Presidio avenue. The Princess will remain here for two or three months before leaving for Washington, where she will spend the winter.—S. F. Bulletin.

"Tennis week" at Del Monte provides to prove as attractive as did the golf tournament. Contrary to report, Mrs. W. G. Irwin and Miss Helene Irwin have not come to town, but are still lingering at the hotel. Mrs. H. Scott and Miss Lillian Goss returned Thursday and Mr. and Mrs. Kearney, Arthur Ingersley, Herbert Payne, C. Payne, Templeton Crocker and Duane Hopkins do not expect to leave until next week.—S. F. Bulletin.

Miss Zabriske and Miss Tenney, two attractive visitors in San Francisco will share the honors at a luncheon to be given tomorrow by Miss Lurline Matson for sixteen of her friends.—S. F. Bulletin.

Mrs. Harold Dillingham returned yesterday from Del Monte, where she has been the guest of Miss Helene Irwin. This popular young society matron will spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Rathbone at their new home in Burlingame. September 13 she will sail on the Siberia for her home in Honolulu. Her visit to San Francisco has been the incentive for much entertaining and most reluctantly will her friends bid her adieu.—S. F. Bulletin.

Mrs. Eugene Bresse and Miss Metha McMahon will leave within ten days for Europe, where they will spend the winter. Miss McMahon who has been ill for the past week is able to be about now and is the inspiration for any number of farewell gatherings. Miss Marie Tyson is planning a luncheon for her at the Francesca Club, and Miss Florence Braverman will entertain in her honor. Mrs. Richard Ivers Mrs. W. G. Irwin and Miss Helene Irwin came up today from Del Monte and are at their Washington street home.—S. F. Bulletin.

The very latest, we are told, in millinery to which we must now in turn accustom ourselves, a style set forth by the bright and beautiful craze of Paris, Mdsle. Lautelme, is the "Flower Pot" chapeau made, according to its name, of rough straw or other materials in the shape of an inverted flower pot. Its chic appearance is marked by simplicity, only two large bows of satin ribbon extending on either side from the back. The new hat casts a shadow over the face being worn well down over the brows, and with its long senorita earrings are worn.

The event of the week, socially and artistically, at Del Monte, was the dinner given Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Irwin, who, with their attractive daughter, are down for the tournament. Dinner was served in the private banquet-room, where the tables were arrayed in a hollow square the center banked high with palms and great ferns. Covers were laid for forty, and the table, with its profusion of pink amaryllis and delicate orchids, its "Chanteclair" place cards, was very lovely. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Woods, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. J. B. Crockett, Templeton Crocker, Eugene Murphy, Miss Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. McNear, Douglas Grant, Miss Newhall, Mrs. Herbert Payne, Miss Jennie Crocker, Herbert Payne, Clare Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Sprague, Miss Sprague, Joseph P. Redding, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Pope, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crocker, Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Scott, Harry Scott, W. P. Scott, Duane Hopkins, Miss Lee Girvin, Miss Virginia Jolliffe and Miss Ethel Crocker.—S. F. Chronicle.

Mrs. Isobel Strong, who has been visiting Mrs. Frank Preston, returned a few days ago to their home in Montecito. In September she will go East to visit Mr. and Mrs. Austin Strong and Mr. and Mrs. Bourke Cockran in New York, where she will remain during the winter.—S. F. Chronicle.

Mrs. Charles Hartigan has returned from a visit with friends at Mare Island and is occupying her apartment at the Douglas with her aunt, Miss Thompson. Should Ensign Hartigan's ship, the Yorktown, be ordered to Honolulu from Corinto, where it is stationed, Mrs. Hartigan will spend the winter in Hawaii.—S. F. Chronicle.

A number of golf enthusiasts have run down to Haleiwa today to participate in the golf tournament. The roads all the way are exceptionally good and the links are in excellent condition. Among those spending the week end at Haleiwa this week are Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Whitehouse, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Halstead.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams entertained at a very pretty dinner party last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Johnson. The round table was daintily elaborate being graced with a large cut glass bowl as a centerpiece, brimful of large American Beauty roses and pink confection gracefully twined over the cloth. Pink candelabra were also in evidence and the place cards depicted Hawaiian scenes. Those at the table were Mr. and Mrs. Merle Johnson, Mrs. Forbes, sister of the bride, of Alen, Miss Ada Lyett, Mr. Charles Osborne and Mr. and Mrs. Williams. After dinner music was enjoyed, and later a motor drive about the city.

Among the Honoluluans returning morning on the Sierra were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Oat who have been for the past three months touring the eastern states.

At an elaborate luncheon for eighteen at her home at the peninsula, Mrs. Albert Waterhouse in a unique fashion announced the engagement of her sister, Miss Eda Koepke, and Mr. Sherwood Lowrey, which was quite a surprise to even the intimate friends of the popular girl.

The lunal where luncheon was served was decorated as a bower with palms, ferns and hanging baskets, and the large round table was adorned by a very large centerpiece of fragrant American Beauty roses in a rock crystal bowl. Soft pale pink satin ribbon was an additional feature, its folds falling gracefully along the table while tipped rose buds and maidenhair were scattered between the folds. The place cards were portentous of the news which formed the nucleus of small talk, and the letters sketched on each, when spelled aloud, announced the engagement. Thereupon here was much mirthful jest and friendly banter, and the menu, which was delicious was unnoticed for the excitement which prevailed.

Miss Koepke, a charming and talented girl and brilliant musician, is one of the most popular girls of the younger local set, and her fiancé, Mr.

Sherwood Lowrey, a college graduate and popular young bachelor is a son of one of the most aristocratic families of these islands.

After luncheon the guests spent the afternoon discussing all sides of the delightful news and felicitations galore fell, like the rain without, in showers on the bride elect.

Those present on this occasion were Mrs. Francis Gay of Kauai, Mrs. Arthur Mackintosh, Mr. Sam Baldwin, Mrs. Ralph Johnstone, Miss Constance Restarick, Miss Vera Damon, Miss Alice Roth, Miss Belle McCorriston, Miss Muriel Howatt, Miss Marie Von Holt, Miss Esther Koepke, Miss Eleanor Waterhouse, Miss Harriet Young, Miss Margaret Waterhouse, and Miss Eda Koepke for whom the luncheon was given.

It is quite a fad these warm days for ladies and children to spend many hours each week at the Outrigger club where, after a swim or surf riding contest, tea is served under the hau trees, now neatly trimmed and supported on pergolas. This club, through the efforts of Mr. Ford, has been greatly improved of late and has become a tempting spot for many of our society maids and matrons during the late afternoon where a dozen or more graceful surfers standing on their boards ride beautifully in on the combers. Two experts of this difficult sport are little Roy Graham and Gordon Wakefield, so greatly resembling each other that they have been named the "twins." These little fellows are very clever, and lead all the grown-ups in their aquatic maneuvers.

One of the prettiest and most novel things ever seen in Honolulu, and which is causing a great deal of flattering curiosity, is the magnificent 20 foot new canoe brought by the Magoon boys from Kona, which is made entirely of koa, with paddles of the same, and deftly constructed without a nail, koa pegs having been substituted. Since their arrival with this exquisite canoe, they have been the hosts of several surfing parties, who are all praise for their skill in catching the waves, and the delicious fudge which for the benefit of the lady guests, is always kept in great quantities in airtight tins in the bow.

Mrs. A. M. Brown and Mrs. John Walker were among the society people returning during the week from the other islands after a delightful sojourn on Maui.

Sailing on the Siberia on September 13th will be Harry Wilder and his bride, Miss Lambersen of Portland, whose wedding will take place in the northern city Wednesday. They will be at the St. Francis for a few days before departing for Honolulu. Also on the Siberia will be Mrs. Harold Dillingham, returning to the islands after a visit to her sister, Mrs. Baldwin Wood, and Cutler Paige, who will make a tour of the world.—S. F. Chronicle.

George H. Fairchild of Honolulu and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Macfarlane of the same city are guests at the St. Francis.—S. F. Call.

The most strenuous season known in years is coming to a close at Del Monte. It would not be surprising if some of the members of our smart set would drop from sheer exhaustion, as did Mesdames French Vanderbilt, Mrs. Reynolds Hilt, Mrs. Clarence Dolan and Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt a few evenings ago at Newport, the fashionable resort of the Atlantic.

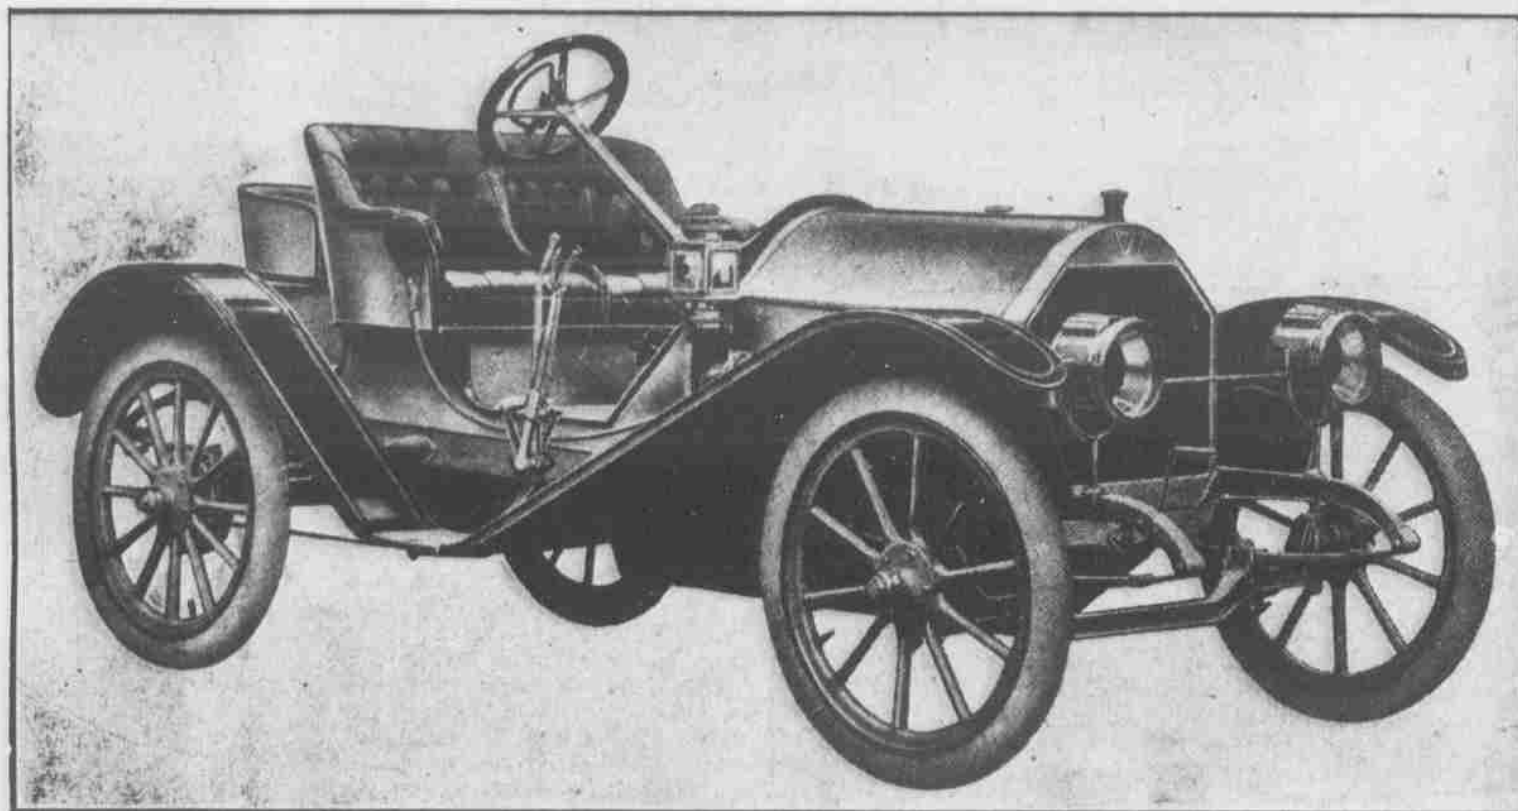

The dinner at which our genial czar was host last evening at Pebble Beach Lodge may well be classed with those given last week by Mesdames William G. Irwin and George Tope. All the adjectives might be used and unless one was present they would have but a slight idea of the elaborateness of the occasion.

Among those who accepted Mr. Greenway's hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Crocker, T. T. Scott, W. G. Irwin, Fred McNear, Alfred Tubbs, Mrs. J. B. Crockett, Mrs. W. H. Martin, Mrs. Harold Dillingham, Mademoiselle Ethel Crocker, Lee Girvin, Elizabeth Woods, Lillian Goss, Elizabeth and Marian Newhall, Helene Irwin, Jennie Crocker, Virginia Jolliffe, Messrs. Templeton Crocker, Prescott Scott, Eugene Murphy, E. H. Hopkins, Duane Hopkins, Robinson Hayne, Frank Frazier, Campbell Whyte, Harold Bingham, Robert Lyre, Clare Payne, Bert Payne, R. R. Chrystie and William H. Crocker, Jr.—S. F. Bulletin.

The officers of the Montclair were the gracious hosts at a reception and dance aboard ship Saturday afternoon. French and American flags and California flowers decorated every nook and corner of the deck, where dancing was enjoyed until the late afternoon. Over four hundred were the guests of these hospitable foreigners.—S. F. Bulletin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Irwin will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ivers in their Washington street home next month. Mr. and Mrs. Ivers expect to be in San Francisco several days on their way around the world.—S. F. Bulletin.

ONE YEAR OLD— and the most widely copied car in America—THE HUDSON

The Roadster will be continued in 1911--Same Price--$1,000

DETROIT

From the beginning the Hudson roadster met with universal favor.

Even in the "blue print" stage—when it was a car on paper only—it captured a host of admirers. As soon as the car was built, many of the country's most knowing automobile men came to see it, to study it—men who had designed and built successful motor cars. The Hudson roadster offered them many ideas. And today, as a result the Hudson is the most widely copied car in America.

This car was an immediate success. It became a salesman's car.

Mercantile, real estate and insurance men used it. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. bought six roadsters for its salesmen on the Pacific Coast. Twelve consecutive months of service in California only emphasized what we promised.

The Sanitary District of Chicago bought six cars for use only the banks of the famous drainage canal. These

THE HUDSON ROADSTER Compared

The Hudson Roadster is here compared with the average of all the cars in the $1,000 class exhibited at the three great Automobile Shows in the United States. The percentages were taken from the tables shown in Motor Age. At a glance it is evident that the HUDSON is far superior to the average of its competitors. It has every important feature of its rivals, and more.

| Uses It | Average of All Cars | Hudson Roadster |
|--|---------------------|-----------------|
| Wheel Base | 90 in. | 100 in. |
| Wheel Diameter | 30.5 in. | 32 in. |
| A.L.A.M. Horsepower | 20 | 22.5 |
| Piston Displacements | 135.2 | 193.8 |
| Percentage using Circulating Water Pump only | 21.9 p. cent. | Uses it |
| Percentage using Double Ignition only | 10 p. cent. | Uses it |
| Percentage using Gravity Carburetor | 100 p. cent. | Uses it |
| Percentage using Circulating Oil Pump only | 62.4 p. cent. | Uses it |
| Percentage using Speed Selective Transmission only | 19.3 p. cent. | Uses it |

cars each cover seventy miles of rough, hilly, roadless paths daily. Twenty-seven and one-half per cent of all Hudson owners are making a commercial or business use of the car.

This car also appealed immediately to the women. The roadster was easy to control—easy to manipulate. It was graceful in outline.

Men who owned larger and more powerful cars, bought the Hudson to get around more easily—more quickly in metropolitan communities. It is really surprising to note the number of Hudson owners who have larger and more powerful cars.

Men in the public eye bought the car—men like Glenn H. Curtiss, the noted aviator; J. B. Herreshoff, the famous designer of yachts; Eddie Foy, the comedian; F. D. Underwood, president of the Erie Railroad, and Charles Hartzell, secretary of state of Porto Rico. There were these men and many more. They saw the merit of the Hudson.
